

Letterpress Printing

Monday, 05 January 2009

Letterpress printing methods is simply exquisitely classical. Although we might not see these sort of printing used widely at present time, still there are companies out there which offers fantastic letterpress printing services such as letterpress weddings. One of such company which can provide exclusive letterpress printing services is definitely DauphinePress.com.

In fact, DauphinePress.com has incorporated this centuries old printing process with modern technology. And if you take a look at their online catalog, you'd be amazed by the designs of their letterpress invitations. I did browse through their letterpress wedding invitations and I can say that the designs are simply stunning. I have even embedded one of my personal favorite designs at the bottom of this post – just to show you how it looks like.

On the other hand, DauphinePress.com also caters custom invitations, letterpress invitations, wedding stationery, baby announcements and many more. It is also very easy to use their system to customize your orders – just pick the design that you like from their web catalog and add elements that you want into the invite. You can also check the total price for the package through the system.

For more information on how you can customize your letterpress wedding invitation, visit DauphinePress.com today!